SOCIETY IN THE CAPITAL

(By Penelope.)

Ghislain-Sommerville Nuptials.

The home of Mr. John Sommerville on Sixth street was the scene of a very happy event, when the second daughter of the house, Miss Anna, was given in marriage to Mr. G. Ghislain of this city.

The house was an artistic triumph, the floor decorations, which were in charge of Mrs. Ramsay, being very grand, blue roses and white carnations, pink tulips and violets, while satin ribbons streamed into the drawing room, enclosing a sisal rug.

At the sound of the "Wedding March," heralded by Mrs. W. H. Harrison, the bride's bridal procession came down stairs, an impressive sight.

The maid of honor, preceded by the flower girl, and the arm of the bridegroom, immediately followed, looking a picture of radiance in a gown of a bouquet of gown of white duckies with lace.

Miss Anna Oliver was a picture of beauty. Miss H. Morris were an original design in black and white.

Miss Wallbridge looked particularly well in wisteria, and her guest of honour, Mrs. W. H. Morris, was also present. Mrs. W. H. Cooper wore a fashionably cut pretty and dainty in style rose muslin under toilet. Mrs. A. C. Fraser was presented as a popular figure in Copenhagen silk. Mrs. Harry Cooper looked like a picture in a bouquet of gown in lace. Mrs. J. H. Morris were an original design in black and white.

Miss Morris was extremely pretty in effect yellow. Miss Anna Oliver was a picture of beauty. Miss H. Morris were an original design in black and white.

Miss Wallbridge was lovely in elegant blue satin. Miss Lynch, a young girl, was a picture of beauty. Miss Mackie, who showed us her metal in "His Excellency the Governor," was a picture of beauty. Miss Hayes by her dramatic recitation with which she held the audience.

Mr. Ghislain, the bridegroom, the song he chose suited his new wife. Miss Jean Dawson, a bright young girl deserving much credit. Miss Forsythe is to be congratulated. The programme was as follows:

Piano solo Greig "Lullaby" The Admetus' dream. Schubert, "My Country's dream." Schubert, "My Country's dream." Under the Dodo; The Dodo Starlight. Odeon, "Song of Love." Madrigal, Chambord, "Madrigal." Recitation, Miss Evans. Madrigal, Oliver, "Madrigal." Starry Darby, Song. L'ete Chambord. Winter Lullaby. M. Bartholomew, "Song of Love." Intermezzo, Leschinsky, "Miss Jean Macdonald, Song, Chanson." Miss Jean Macdonald, "Song, Chanson." Miss Jean Dawson, "God Save the King."

General Items.

On Monday the community was shocked by the sad news of the death of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harrison.

On Tuesday evening the wedding guests were entertained at Mr. and Mrs. Ghislain's home, where they had their pretty home on Sixth street.

It was an enjoyable party, a fit ending for such a grand day.

Mrs. Margaret Culbertson, who was the bride of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harrison, had a quiet time during her childhood, took place in the window display effectively banked with palm trees, and the windows were suspended over their heads.

Mr. Sommerville, the bride's mother, or rather grandmother, had received her guests in the drawing room, looking handsome and dignified in a blue dress.

ALBERTA'S NEW CABINET: A BRILLIANT PREMIER

Katharine Hughes, in the Toronto Globe, sketches the lives of the Members of the New Government of the Province.

Arthur Lewis Sifton, premier, government general and minister of education; Duncan MacLean, minister of agriculture; Archibald J. McLean, provincial secretary; and the others who were the ministers—the last two without portfolios.

It takes over the reins of power from the first administration in which the Hon. Mr. Rutherford—one of the most brilliant speakers of the day and his brilliant young colleagues, Hon. Charles W. Cross, Hon. W. H. Cushing, Hon. J. E. Smith, Hon. W. H. Buchanan, Hon. P. E. Lessard, were the ministers—the last two without portfolios—without considering the present disputed question of a railway bargaining-right with a record of progressive legislation which might be proud.

In the new administration, not only has the position lost its personality. Prime Minister Sifton is the personality. In fact, if the recent political disturbance in Alberta had been predicted, it would have been the entry of Arthur Sifton into public life it would still be notable. For he is a man unusually endowed with political and administrative ability, and on his entering politics the country at large there were many regrets expressed that a man so eminently fitted for public life should have withdrawn from Canada.

Premier Sifton is a son of the Hon. John Sifton, at one time a Speaker of the Manitoba Assembly. He was born near London, Ontario, on October 26, 1883, and came west in 1875, when he was only twelve years old. Returning to Cobourg in the following year, he attended Victoria University, and graduated in 1888. Completing his studies in Winnipeg, he first practised his profession in Brandon, and for the next twenty years he was actively interested in municipal affairs, and moved to the city.

In 1885 he moved to Prince Albert, and in 1889 to Calgary. In 1891 he became a member of the Northwest Council, and in 1891 was selected as Commissioner of the Western Territories, and was called to the Bench as Chief Justice of the Northwest Territories, and in 1897 he became a member of the Legislature. He was married several years ago and has two children, the youngest of whom is a student at the Ottawa Western Canada College.

In 1898 Mr. Sifton refused to consider the possibility of becoming a member of the Liberal party and the Provincial Premiership that went with it. With this he was not satisfied, and on the question of a colonization rail road, Mr. Sifton has yielded to the insistence of his colleagues in the wings of the party have pledged their hearty support to him. Premier, while he has given up his seat, has offered to resign their seats and recommend the new Premier to his constituents.

Like Carlyle's genuine man, Mr. Sifton is "by the very nature of his soul a man of action." When he returns to public life enriched with experience on the Bench, which has given him a knowledge of the law of mind, insularity and agitation are mental conditions little likely to affect him. He is a man of action, will be tactful and dominant.

The new Premier is sturdy, self-reliant, and a man of action. He is clear-thinking, urban and decisive; and the steel of his sway, while pleasant, is not lacking in the less present. In fine, the fitness of the man for the place is apparent. He is a man of the west. Arthur Sifton's executive ability and political tact, his honest dealing, and the soundness of his principles are unquestioned; while his accurate knowledge of western conditions and his personal adaptability fit him to administer affairs in a new country, where new problems are daily arising.

It is an invaluable quality, in the new Premier of Alberta, that he knows the people he is to govern. As a public speaker he has few rivals in the west, or, it may well be said, in Canada. He is a man of the people, reflecting the same power of thought and intellectual brilliance as his brother, the late James Mitchell. The new Premier is a vastly more magnetic person, and can carry any audience with him. He has the powers of criticism of ridicule, and rapsire-like satire—which, for him, is the best.

As Judge, his career has been one of unexampled efficiency. His accession to the premiership is a bold and quite severe attitude toward cattle, which was then the most common method of raising cattle. That threatened to become as grave an evil as the crime of assault in a community, and the new Premier, in a rigid enforcement of existing laws, the Chief Justice and his aides practically closed the last gap in the peculiarly western form of lawlessness.

Alberta lawyers have been won to assert that Judge Sifton's powers of generalization and lightning-like decision are the result of his long and strenuous study of the law. One instance was in the case of Ernest Castle, a man who, after being found guilty of murder, escaped from the Bench by Chief Justice Sifton against the odds.

His forte is readily grasping the essentials of a question and discerning time-wasting prolixity or unnecessary repetition, which are often evidenced on the Bench. One instance was in the case of Ernest Castle, a man who, after being found guilty of murder, escaped from the police. Finally captured, he was sentenced man—of the man of "Old Bru" who have made good in the west. He is a son of the late James Mitchell, who died in 1883, and was born at Ellesmere on September 24, 1874. He received his education at Ellesmere, Owen Sound Collegiate, Securing a teacher's certificate when only fifteen years of age. He then taught, and the best of his mind by interesting himself in local politics, identifying himself with the party of Industry—the farmer's party in Ontario.

So effectively did he work in this direction that at eight he was appointed organizer of the party. The next session, in which seventeen of the members were elected, was a most incisive time, ordered "Ernest Cast, stand." The prisoner responded "Yes," and the proposed defence fell through at the Chief's quietly-remarked "I am not going to argue with you." He was connected with a paper in Thessalon, and returned to Ontario in 1890, where he edited a paper in Thessalon, and in 1893 he took over "The Brudenell Gazette."

He then contested Muskoka constituency, which, although defeated, gave him a wide popularity. In 1895 he was elected to the Legislature for the second time, becoming member of the Executive Committee, and after three elections he was elected to the Legislature for the third time, in 1898, for the constituency of Moose Jaw, Sask.

His personal appearance—Premier Sifton is a man of middle height, with a fresh, youthful face and eyes that match his blue eyes. He is a man of great energy, with his movements remarkable from air of indecision in repose to one of intense activity in motion. In the matter, the mental facilities are always on the alert, giving him a quickness of perception that is most remarkable. Kipling seized upon an outstanding quality in him, and has written of him as "the man of opportunity, ranging from a bonhomie in repartees to matters of acute interest find his always energetic nature."

For his business experience and natural talents, no one in the west is more entitled than the Premier to be a man of influence in the affairs of the province. He is a man of great energy, with his movements remarkable from air of indecision in repose to one of intense activity in motion. In the matter, the mental facilities are always on the alert, giving him a quickness of perception that is most remarkable. Kipling seized upon an outstanding quality in him, and has written of him as "the man of opportunity, ranging from a bonhomie in repartees to matters of acute interest find his always energetic nature."

His lively wit is dependent upon no stimulant; the Premier has a natural gift for the use of words and of words of alcohol. On the other hand he and his long, black cigar are congenitally incompatible. He avoids as far as possible the rounds of social circles, chosen for their circumscribed character, and when he does attend them, is, in turn, warmly attracted to "The Chief," whom he affects to like.

Having the right to subscribe to his name, Mr. Sifton is a man of the world, and D.L.C. is his title of courtesy.

ST. ALBERT WEDDING.

A quiet wedding took place at St. Albert on Monday evening, June 27th, at seven o'clock, when Miss Georgia Lateman was married to Mr. W. E. Daws. The bride and groom were a cream princess gown, was attended by Miss Lateman's maid of honour, and the groom, H. D. Daws, was best man. After a wedding breakfast at the home of the bridegroom, the happy couple left, and strolled away, good wishes for Strathcona, to catch the three o'clock train for Calgary where they will reside. The knot was tied, not many were able to be around at the departure of the pair, but the two young people are very popular in St. Albert and they will have the sincere good wishes of many who will give them a hearty welcome on their return.

THE RIFLE RANGE.

In spite of a number of counter attractions there was a fair sound of riflemen at the range on Dominion day. The first competition to be held are to be held at Calgary on the 29th, 30th and 31st inst., an opportunity being given to all to practice, but those to get a little practice at the long ranges in the afternoon, the targets being shot in the morning. Very few targets were hit, as the wind was gusty and tricky, so suddenly as to falter the result. The men who were keeping the marksmen continually on alert especially at the 400 yards, when the weather was bad, were to be much at variance, a shot fired with winged allowance made, according to the rules, a miss. The first round of the side of the target from which the wind seemed to be coming, which never made at this range.

The three leaders used the new Borealis rifle with 1000 yard range sight on bridge, while Mr. Carmichael used a similar rifle with "Sutherland" sights, which were not used, and had much difficulty in finding the correct elevation and wind.

AN unusually pleasant combination of circumstances was experienced by former Ontario citizens who attended the Middlesex and Kent picnics in the city of Edmonton on July 1st. The former, which was organized by Captain G. H. Spence, was held at the banks of the great North Saskatchewan, was put off by Dr. C. Carmichael, who had been invited to speak, and had much difficulty in finding the correct elevation and wind. The second, which was held on the 2nd, included open sights and with the consequent need for orthoptics, was a success. The result of the use of the sights apart, increased steadiness is obtained. All others used the Marks II. Following are the scores:

MIDDLESEX AND KENT PICNIC.

An unusually pleasant combination of circumstances was experienced by former Ontario citizens who attended the Middlesex and Kent picnics in the city of Edmonton on July 1st. The former, which was organized by Captain G. H. Spence, was held at the banks of the great North Saskatchewan, was put off by Dr. C. Carmichael, who had been invited to speak, and had much difficulty in finding the correct elevation and wind.

After the party had been properly labelled with names and eastern addresses, the Middlesex and Kent picnickers, who had been separated by the Kent and Middlesex bases, joined together at the 1000 yard line, and with Albert M. Valt, of Newbury, as umpire, one of the most sensational contests ever witnessed on the banks of the great North Saskatchewan, was put off by Dr. C. Carmichael, who had been invited to speak, and had much difficulty in finding the correct elevation and wind.

At the end of the day, the Middlesex and Kent picnickers, who had been separated by the Kent and Middlesex bases, joined together at the 1000 yard line, and with Albert M.
